“ Well A B was my nabor I remember them moving in all those snotty nose kids. The one thing I remember was he served in the marines and was at Parris island when those boot camp marines died during boot camp he said it was hell he went through boot camp at the same time. The Corp changed boot camp after that

“ J.B. will always live on in my heart. I spent a lot of time growing up around his family and especially Randy, my best friend. I always called him "J.B" instead of "A.B" but he just went along with it. Squirrel hunting on Sand Mountain and digging under his fence in Rossville,GA. will never be the same. Love ya, J.B.

“ Some of the best memories of my life were centered around this man. I grew up with his three sons and for a period of time we were inseparable. He was like my second dad and they were my second family.
