“ Hey Ben we sure have been threw a lot growing up, remember how we all used to get in trouble with your mom and Jim those were the days. I'm setting here trying to type and hold back the tears, I just can't believe this is real. But u know they say god only takes the best. It's sure going to be rough down here with out you, I know you are in heaven shouting all over the streets of gold so calm down buddy I'll be there one day. I guess I better quit the more I write the more the tears are flowing. So by for now but knot for ever. Thanks for being a great friend and brother Bo

“ Ben was my friend George's little brother. I had seen him around, we all grew up in the same area. Although I didn't personally know him that well. I do know his brother and mother very well. And for that reason my husband Adolfo and I send . our deepest, most heart felt condolences to the Gray & Guy families. Knowing Mrs. Maggie the way I do I know that Ben is in Heaven. He is with our Lord and King. And that has to be a better place. R.I.P. Ben
