“ Dear Family of Billie Sue Goodman,
I was a friend of Billie Sue in high school. She was so sweet and everyone loved her. We enjoyed singing together in chorus. The newspaper picture showed the same lovely smile she had as a girl. I am so blessed to have known Billy Sue. My heart goes out to all of you in the recent deaths in your family. You will be in my prayers that God will surround you with His mighty arms of comfort and care. May you all have a joyous family reunion in heaven, never to part again.
With love and peace,
Brenda Owens Blackwell

“ I was heartbroken when Lynette Carter told me that you had gone to Heaven. I was so used to talking to you so often and sharing daily love about our fur babies. I know your healing was immediate and you are there now with so many of your family including your beloved Beth but you're missed here too. Your light was so bright every day by your cheerful attitude and your deep love of Jesus. I'll see you again one day sister but please hug my Dad (Billy Harrison) and Donna Paradise for me. Thoughts and prayers for those friends and family left behind.

“ My Aunt Billie was a big personality with a big heart. She always went out of her way to make us kids feel special. One time she gave me live chickens as a Christmas gift, gift wrapped and all. Who else but Billie would put in that much effort. We will miss you a lot.

“ Anyone who knew my sister, knew that she loved books and that love started at a very young age. However, that love of reading sometimes took away my playtime with my sister and so I started hiding her book she was reading hoping she would play with me. My scheme worked for a while; but then she started picking up another book and start reading it when she couldn't find the book I had hidden. I remember one particular day, she was so frustrated with my aggravation that she climbed on top of the roof of our house, knowing I would not follow, just so she could read her book in peace. She told me in her adult life that I was the reason that she always had several books she was reading at one time and was unable to read one book all the way through without starting another. Although there is an empty place in my heart, I know that she no longer has to endure sickness and pain and that she has been reunited with the loves of her life Bill and Beth. If I know my sister, she has already found her a good place to settle down in Heaven and read a book. Maybe Beth will hide one from her, just for me. I love you Billie and will miss you so much!
