“ I was so sorry to hear of Dale passing away. He was young!!! I can still hear his laugh! We spent many hours talking about the military as I was a military brat and traveled much with our family. Dale was a great manager and always listened to concerns about work and was fair...at least as fair as one can be when working with mostly women.

I remember many BBQ's that he would do for our students and many of our work get togethers...he was always cooking up something great! Turkey basted in wine, etc.

Dale was one of the good ones and he is dearly missed. Rest in peace, my friend. And prayers go to the family.

“ Dale, words alone cannot express the sadness and loss Gayle and I feel of your passing. Never again will the Christmas Holidays be filled with complete joy, remembering this is the time of the year that you left us. Even though we have known each other for 5 short years you were not only a friend, but a brother-in-arms. And, as a brother, we laughed together, drank together, bore sad times together, and, as brothers do, argued together. The very few times we did disagree, we remained friends. As you said, back in October: “We can argue, call each other names, cuss, holler, and even knock each other down, but in the end we can get up, brush our selves off, shake hands, and walk out as friends. There isn’t anybody else I can do this with – we still respect each other...” I will always remember this conversation we had together. It was as heartwarming to me, as I know it was for you saying it to me. That’s what makes brothers.

Dale, you spent your whole life giving to others, whether it be to your Nation, your teachings, or your volunteer service to your community, you have given your all, and for this we are all profoundly grateful. Your tireless devotion and service to others has now cost you your life. For all your dedication, making life better for others, mission accomplished “Well Done”.

Your work, on earth, is over, now go, be with God, and be at piece my friend, and be at rest my brother.....

“ Dale,

We are so saddened to hear that you have left us from this earth. We always looked forward to your smile and always funny jokes. Over the months that you came to visit us here at our office we grew very close to you and always enjoyed your visits with us. Our thoughts and prayers are with you and your family during this tough time.
