“ I remember the first time Dad taught me to fish. I remember how patient he was with me and how much he cherished spending time with his children as much as life permitted. This life on earth is too short and we should take every opportunity to say the things that need to be said to those we love and to those who love us and always give the forgiveness that Jesus gave to us. I know this is our temporary home and we will ALL be together again as one complete family when our Lord finally calls us home.
