“ You were one of the most caring men I had ever met. You hated asking anyone for help even when it was offered. You have your independence back now and you're no longer sick. You no longer have to struggle.
I'll miss you my friend! R.I.P.

“ So many stories could write a book. You were the best dad friend anyone could have. Thank you for always being there for me through it all. Best memory was being afraid of being late to your bi pass surgery an you saying they can't start without me. All the years later an all the lose we both suffered. I miss you so much an love you to pieces. I'm glade you suffer no more, that your in your new body, in your new home, I will miss you an all of our talks but now you can talk to the other two people up there that ment the world to me, you, mom an granny Nora. Always in my heart, gone from this world but never forgotten. Love you
