“ I loved to hear Aunt Susie tell the story of the night Billy was born. She had went to shop for groceries at BI-LO with Grannie McAfee they were almost done when Grandpa came running In to get Grandma to drive to Anniston, AL. because I was having a C-section to have Billy! He threw the keys to his truck to Aunt Susie and they left, leaving Grandma's full grocery art in the middle of the store! aunt Susie finished her shopping and when the bag boy asked her where she parked her car she said she didn't know! Grandpa hadn't told her where he had parked the truck! I love my Aunt Susie so much!!

“ The funniest memory I have of my Grannie is when I was just a little girl. I was riding my bike and wrecked. After picking me up off the concrete my wound had to be cleaned. She searched the house for peroxide to only find alcohol. She poured it on and WOW did it set me on fire so I went to screaming. BLOW IT GRANNIE I screamed over and over. Then she blowed and her false teeth landed in my leg!!! It was so funny because she would always tease us with her teeth. I ended up forgetting all about my burning wounds and grannie made it all better.... I live you grannie and I will miss you. The kids said to tell you they love you! Until we meet again!!

“ What I remember most about Susie is how she could get things done. One time our family and her family decided to move to Alabama and so we did with nothing but our clothes and dishes and such. When we arrived we started looking for a place to live so we went riding around and run upon an empty house but it had no sign on it but that didn't stop Susie. She went from neighbor to neighbor asking if they knew who rented it and she found out, so she call man and he rented it to us right then and there. After we got car unloaded she told her husband take her to town and she get some furniture on credit because we didn't have any money left to buy it so off she went, came back driving the stores truck loaded with furniture and her husband came in I said did she get some and he said not only did he sell her furniture but gave her job as his delivery person. All this happen in one day and so thanks to Susie our 'go-getter' we had comfortable beds to sleep in that night.
