“ Can't believe this still! Eric and I have been through just about everything you can imagine under the sun. We've always called each other brother and respected each other the same. It truly breaks my heart to know that we won't be spending any time together here on earth anymore. I remember the day he asked me to walk to the altar with him and he gave his heart to the Lord. Offer prayers for me brother in your new home above. God bless you all! Love you brother and I know we'll meet again soon.
