“ Momma Faye, i just cant believe your gone! You welcomed me with open arms 31 years ago, and was an amazing adopted Momma! You always put up with Rosie, Ginger and my craziness growing up with a laugh, and a headshake! Many years of weekends, and summers growing up were spent with you, and us driving you nuts. You and i had been there for each other to talk about things going on in our lives good or bad. We cried together, and we laughed together. You were there for me when my Momma passed away 5 years ago, and now my last Momma is gone! I hope you give her and Granny a big hug for me! I love you, and will miss you dearly!

“ The news of your passing was such a shock to me..Tho I havent seen you since moma passed I still thought of you often and wondered how you were. It's crazy the way death can sometimes separate families. You have been my sister and friend for at least 28 years or longer. I will always remember your kindness and caring demeanor. You will always be my sister and I am sad you left this world but I am excited to know you no longer suffer from any kind of pain or insecurities and you have gone to a mutch better place to reunite with those that preceed you and what glorious celebration it must be too. I am saddened by your passing but confident I will see you again one day and how beautiful and happy you will be..Thank you sister for never judging me or looking down at me for my faults. It really meant a lot to me. When no one else would talk to me you still did and you always tried to build my confidence and never once looked down on me. I love you Faye Raines and I hope the Angel's know what they have dancing in the sky.And I have another angel to help watch over me from heaven above. You will be greatly missed but never forgotten. God bless our family. I love you all and pray you find comfort from our God in heaven during this very difficult and unexpected loss.

“ I can't believe you are gone. I keep listening for you to come through the door and say "Hey girl what are you doing ". I know there were days when I was hard on you, but it was because I love you and only wanted the best for you. Rest easy and know that you will always have a special place in my heart.
