Iris and I were best friends from the third grade until I graduated from the University of South Florida and moved away from the Tampa area. We remained in contact for many years and gradually lost contact when I went to work for a British company and didn't spend much time in the U.S. for many years. I shall always remember what a great support she was when my father died when we were in the ninth grade. The last time I saw her was when her two boys were toddlers. I shall always be thankful for the friendship we shared when both of us were going through difficult circumstances and how much we supported each other. Her death notice was a shock to read, but I shall remember how supportive we were of each other during some very difficult times in our young lives. As the Irish say, "May God hold her in the hollow of His hand." RIP my beloved friend. Thanks for the memories.

I was her Maid of Honour when she married Jack Marsh, and I made her wedding dress as well as my Maid of Honour dress. I kept that dress for many years, but I didn't ever wear it again.
