“ I felt the Angel take you from your earthly shell.
I saw the light leave your eyes. Your skin go pale.
Yet in my heart I could hear you sing.
Joy to my heart your songs could always bring.
Rest now sweet songbird be weary no more.
Sing now for Jesus till we are together again on that Heavenly shore.

I love Mommie

“ I haven't seen Judy since we were young kids but the one thing I remember is her singing. We always had to have a "talent"show and she would sing. From what I have read about her since her death, she continued to sing all her life.

“ I didn't really get to know my Aunt Judy well but in the times I have visited her she was extremely sweet and excited for company. She always wanted to look nice even when she wasn't feeling well. When I had open heart surgery in 1995 Aunt Judy sent me some really beautiful and uplifting poems and words. She loved to write poems. I never got to hear her sing but I have heard my mother talk of her sisters angelic voice ... Rest in peace and love and light Aunt Judy!
