“ George was a true gentleman and a gifted conversationalist. I always cherished our talks and admired the deep love he had for his family. We shared many things in common, and his kindness to my own family during our time of need will never be forgotten. I will always remember you, Mr. Battersby, and the invaluable life lessons you shared with me.

“ Hearing the news about George Battersby's passing was difficult to hear, but I'm comforted in the fact that he's at peace now & reunited with so many others who have gone before him. He was such an amazing Irish man with a booming voice & a bluntness that everyone loved. He was like a father figure to me & so many others—someone who always left an unforgettable mark. He got me my first fishing pole when I worked at Kelly Cadillac, which meant a lot to me, especially during that time in my life.

When my husband & I visited Ireland, I had the chance to walk around his hometown of Stillorgan & take in the beauty of Dun Laoghaire Harbor, places that feel even more special now.

George, you meant so much to so many people & you will be missed terribly. I love you Georgie, until I see you again. -Forever Your Sparrow Fart

“ So I have been thinking of how I can share a memory. There are to many. I lost my dad 22 years ago. George became my 2nd dad. Daddy George I called him. He was always there for me any time I needed to talk to him. He gave me the same advice that my dad would give me. My heart is absolutely broken once again. I know he's not suffering anymore and has a new body. He is with is mom that he loves and missed her so much! He loved his family and friends! For us that are left behind on this earth he will be waiting for us! RIP Daddy George!!

“ George was an absolute gift to humanity. I met him through work and his support for Orange Grove and the hard working people within the organization was very moving. He was a very kind and caring gentleman that knew how to win over everyone. He was very selfless and always left many people happier than he met them. I admired him as a family man and the dedication he gave to support others without judgement. He will definitely always be a friend and role model for many men that were blessed to have interacted with him.
