“ I met Eric at the hospital last year. I was working in the gift shop and I delivered a few items up to his room. We grew a friendship while he was there and I grew fond of having to deliver his candy and water to his room. Eric and I developed a friendship over time and I would visit him after my shift. He was such a good man. I will never forget the kindness he showed me throughout our visits. He would tell me his hunting and fishing stories all the time and his momma. I knew he just needed to talk about something other than being in the hospital. I'm grateful I was able to help him escape his sickness for a while. I had no idea he had passed til today. We were supposed to go out for lunch to catch up once he got out of the hospital after the new year, but he never texted back. I'm sorry we never got to have that lunch, and I'm so sorry it took me this long to find out what had happened. Eric will be truly missed. I will forever cherish his friendship and the memories I got to make with him, however small and mundane they might've seemed to others. Rest easy sweet friend

Eric was me and Rick's neighbor. We had many good day and visits from him. Rick and Eric are probably laughing and shooting the bull and hanging with love ones and animals. RIP Eric Taylor.
