“ Ola was the best wife and mother that any husband and children could ask God for. She joyously performed the tasks she learned while growing up: she mastered gardening, preserving, cooking, sewing, and the one challenge every mother must learn -- chasing and catching that one child that turns the inside of the house into an Olympic Track Meet running from a bathtub of hot water! Ola could have been the best defensive tackle in the NFL!

Ola had an unyielding strength of morality she learned from her parents, and used that to guide and direct her family to the calm and nurturing Word of God, but also not to be judgmental of others.

I shall miss Ola for her stalwart character, her great sense of humour, her honest and straightforward intellect, her enjoyment of "The Wheel of Fortune", and for me personally -- her chicken salad.

Today, as we say "Merry Christmas" to one another, Ola has earned her place at the greatest party in the Heavens as she looks into the eyes of our beloved Saviour and says "Happy birthday, Jesus!"
