“ *Randy, I never met you until Sunday, when I saw you laying in the bed at the hospital. I remember when I would call your mom's house and you would answer the phone, how many times we talked. You rarely knew where your mom was. I told you that you didn't give good information. I remember you saying nawwww, and laugh. You will be missed by so many but yet always loved. I hope life is better for you now. You have done something that we all have got to do.
