“ Stacy and I worked together at TNAW. I was only there a year, and due to COVID I was pretty isolated, living alone in a new city. Stacy would visit my office, make me feel welcome, talk motorcycles and music, and we planned for better times to explore Chattanooga. Stacy was open, kind, and a magical guy. One could tell he was full of life and had a twinkle in his eye that let you know he had things figured out, and had decided life was with living all-in with a big smile. I am sure we will all miss him.
