“ I had been thinking about you last night when out of the blue Lexi said something about you. All of these little things came washing back to me. We would talk on the phone and the first thing you asked about was always Lexi. Sitting on the front porch swing talking when she walks out and all of your attention turned to her with a Lexi, Whazz up. Every time you saw her you always had a little gift for her even if it was a lollipop or a little rock. These are the memories that I cherish. These are the memories she will always have. And oh how that little girl loves those rocks that Dawn gave her in your memory. We miss you big guy. We really miss you.

“ Daphne will always know how much her “uncle Punk “ loved her. I know you will watch over her ..You are missed very much. You have probably found my dad by now since y’all left us so close together. Play cards with him again. He thought the world of you. Tell him I miss him and the world is just not the same without him here. It’s not the same without either one of y’all.

“ Terry,

Its been one month ago today that you left meit seems like years have passed without you. I dont know how i will go on month after month , year after year without you.

I see you everywhere i gosometimes its a man i see from a distance that reminds me of you , other times its something Alabama or a song i hear on the radio. Your eveywhere i look & its bittersweet.

It hurts but at the same time i smile.

I can still hear you call me your pet names , i never told you but my favorite was when you called me Doe . I still hear the sound of your voice and when things happen , it comes to my mind what you would say & how you would react . You always cracked me up being so blunt but you kept it real.

*I miss our long country rides , getting up at 2am going to get a McDonald's vanilla milkshake , motorcycle rides , you wrestling with Laylai could go on & on.
Your spontaneous nature is one of the things i miss about you the most.*

I keep telling myself that today will be the day i wont shed tears and ive come close a couple of times but then night comes and i falter.

I love you , i will never get over you , nor do i wish to.

Please come visit me in my dreams,

Forever yours , Doe
